SUNRAIL NEWS & INFORMATION FOR CENTRAL FLORIDA'S BUSINESS COMMUNITY

ISSUE 19 • AUGUST 2017

Rockin' & Rollin'

When speaking to kids, often it's hard to grab their attention – especially if it is a topic like their own safety. So SunRail recently created ROCK THE RAILS, an interactive campaign designed to engage school-aged kids, with some friendly competition.

ROCK THE RAILS invites students to write and submit their own SunRail song to teach others how to be smart and stay safe around railroad tracks. Students may work in groups, as a class, with friends or individually and submit their entry for a chance to win cash prizes. SunRail seeks a unique collaboration, so only original lyrics and music will be considered for the prizes.

One school will receive a $500 donation for class entries and two $100 cash prizes are offered for individual or group entries. Winners will be announced on SunRail.com and social media during Train Safety Awareness Week in late September. Submissions must be received by 5pm on Monday, September 18.

For more information, see the homepage of SunRail.com...your favorite student could be the first ROCK THE RAILS star!
